Program Objective

Dissemination of research findings is a moral responsibility of any researcher. Writing manuscripts requires a proper training. Learning the tricks of the trade will make anyone a successful writer. Writing project proposals and getting grants from funding agencies such as DST, DBT, CSIR, BRNS-DAE, DRDO, UGC, AICTE, etc., is a real honour for any faculty member. The capability to generate funds puts you ahead of your colleagues and fellow members of the scientific society. It helps to increase the ranking of the institution and helps in getting a star status from various national accreditation committees. This workshop is structured in such a way that the persons attending it will gain a better understanding of the procedure of writing manuscripts, thesis and project proposals, focusing on the importance of justifying your idea, highlighting the novelty in your work, hypothesis to be tested, how to impressively present your results, points to ponder, what the editor/reviewer expects out of the manuscript/ project proposal.

Who should attend?

This workshop is meant for faculty members, full-time and part-time research scholars and students who are actively involved in research. The sessions are planned in such a way that participants will get a better insight about writing manuscripts, thesis and project proposals. Sufficient time will be allotted for discussion during which the participants can interact with the resource person regarding their difficulty in writing and get valuable suggestions for improvement. All participants will get a participation certificate.

About the organizing institutions

University of Madras (UNOM) is the mother of almost all the old Universities of south India. UNOM is steadily growing from strength to strength while widening its teaching and research activities. The University has been accredited by National Assessment and Accreditation Council (NAAC) with the five star rating first, and later with an A rating. The UGC has recognised the University as one of the centres for "potential for excellence" in the country.

The University of Madras has developed an excellent Institute of Distance Education (IDE) in the year 1981 to help learners to achieve their educational, career and personal goals. It has completed more than 39 years of service in the field of Distance Education. Now the IDE is offering 15 Undergraduate Courses, 20 Postgraduate Courses under CBCS Pattern (Approved by UGC No.F.1-6/2018(DEB-1), dated 03.10.2018), 16 Diploma Courses and 12 Certificate Courses. Admissions are made throughout the year for all these 63 Programmes in two streams namely Academic Year Admissions and Calendar Year Admissions.

Government Arts College (autonomous) for Men, Nandanam, was established in the year 1901. It is affiliated to the University of Madras, Chennai. Its aim is to provide higher education to the students from central and southern region of Chennai.

This college is accredited by NAAC. Out of the 14 departments, 8 of them are offering Ph.D. program. Though the college is situated in the heart of the Chennai city, it attracts students from rural areas of Tamilnadu. Male students are admitted to all U.G. courses. P.G., M. Phil., and Ph.D. program are open to both genders. Few departments have received grants from various funding agencies to carryout research projects. The chemistry department was established in the year of 1972 with U.G. course only. P.G. course was started in 2012. Subsequently, Ph.D. program was introduced in the year of 2014, after getting laboratory recognition for research from University of Madras, Chennai. Our faculty members are actively involved in collaborative research work with School of Chemistry, University of Madras and NCCR- IIT Madras, Chennai.
